"Trapped by Inequality"

Women in the 21st Century are thought to have:

Freedom of Speech

Freedom from Fear

Freedom to Vote

Freedom from Torture

Freedom of Choice

Freedom from enslavement

Freedom of Religion

Unfortunately...

Many women are still stripped of their BASIC rights

Yes, in the 21st Century

It is important to note:

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights

Basically,

- All humans are born free and equal in rights

- Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security as in association with others.

Violence and discrimination against women break every single rule in this Declaration

Problems in the modern world

- The issues with women's rights are still being ignored and remain as a 'social epidemic'.

Here are the facts:

- Women are attacked in areas of armed conflict.

- In Pakistan men are beating women at alarming rates.

- In Thailand, Burma and Nigeria, women are constantly being sold and trafficked into prostitution where governments are not doing enough to protect the rights of women

- In Ukraine and Mexico, women are often denied employment simply because they are women

- In Jordan, Kuwait, Morocco and Saudi Arabia, women are rendered as being unequal in front of the law.
